formal attitude of the Sabbath afternoon meeting and the reflections on what graduates have done since their graduation gave a reaffirmation to the feeling that the alumni have for SMC.

Lynn Sauls, retiring president, conducted the business meeting that followed the alumni supper in the tabernacle. Willard Clapp, '66, president of the Collegedale Chapter, was host for the meeting, and he and his officers, along with faculty members provided the food for the alumni guests. Wallace Blair, '53, president-elect, thanked the outgoing officers for the service they gave.

The fellowship of this buffet supper was appreciated because graduates had an opportunity to see and visit with friends they had not seen for many years. It seems likely that this type of gathering for the supper and the business meeting will set a precedent that the alumni will long enjoy.

Business at the meeting included the ratification of the new constitution.

Retiring president, Lynn Sauls, installed the new officers with Wallace Blair, '53, as president. Other officers include Glenn McColpin, '57, vice president, Doris Crandell, '65, secretary; Helen Sauls, '63, assistant secretary; Ellsworth McKee, '54, treasurer; Sylvia Crook, '68, publicity secretary.

After the buffet supper, the alumni visited the new Women's Residence Hall, named Thatcher Hall after the Thatcher family from whom much of the College property was purchased. Old timers will remember the "Yellow House" down by the railroad, which was the Thatcher plantation home. The alumni visited the lobbies and worship room of Thatcher Hall, and saw many of the rooms.

SMC Names Buildings

Jason Thatcher, Mrs. Kenneth A. Wright and Former President Kenneth A. Wright listen to Elder Walter Wright deliver Pres. Wright's response to Mr. Charles Fleming's tribute.

An assemblage of SMC's 1000 plus students in addition to faculty, the Board of Trustees, Committee of 100, and special out-of-town guests gathered Feb. 6 in the College gymnasium for a special Plaque Presentation Ceremony. This was the occasion for the official naming of three buildings in tribute to individuals especially associated with the College through its early years and during its transitional period from junior college to senior status.

The new $1,350,000 women's residence hall was named for James and Grace Thatcher whose estate became the basic college campus and their home became the original women's residence hall.

Grace Thatcher, now widowed and 94 years old, is ill and was not able to attend the ceremony. Her son Jason, also of Chattanooga, in responding to the tribute for her, said, "It is indeed an honor for the entire Thatcher family for the Board of Trustees to see fit to name this building Thatcher Hall."

The plaque for Talge Hall, (the men's new million-dollar residence) reads, "Named for John H. Talge whose generosity spurred the early growth of the College." President Schneider, in paying tribute to this man, told how Mr. Talge, owner of the Talge Mahogany Company in Indianapolis, was known for his generous gifts during the early days of the College. He donated all the furniture, flooring and bathroom fixtures for the first constructed women's dormitory and all the furnishings for the first men's residence hall. He also supplied $1,300 for laundry equipment, helped purchase a piece of land, and supplied part of the kitchen equipment, plus other donations. His interest in the growth and development of the school greatly helped in its future success.

The plaque to be mounted on SMC's new administration building reads: "Named for Kenneth A. Wright whose presidency of the College from 1943 to 1955 was marked by a dedication to Christian education; by the achievement of faculty and academic excellence; and by attainment of senior status with full accreditation for the college."

Many of the major buildings on the upper level of the campus were built during Elder Wright's term at SMC. Through an expansion of a remarkable work-study plan under his leadership, SMC lifted itself from rather modest circumstances to a multi-million dollar institution that could serve as a valuable example to scores of private colleges struggling to survive.

When Elder Wright became president of Southern Junior College (as it was known then) there were only 120 college students, three frame buildings on the hill, and one Ph.D. For twelve years Elder Wright labored for this school. During this time it became a senior college and secured accreditation on the first request.

Present for the occasion were three of the Wright's children: Mrs. June Frame, '44, of San Juan, Puerto Rico—where her husband is a corporation attorney; Elder Walter Wright, '54, of Loma Linda, Calif., Bible teacher at Loma Linda Academy; Kenneth Wright of Glendale, Calif., now a law student. Unable to be present was Elder Burton Wright, '51, missionary at Malamulo, Malawi, Africa.

Those Who Walked These Halls

Doris Davis Albock has returned to Faith for Today to serve as secretary to Elder Fagal. She first worked for Faith for Today from 1953-57. Her husband, Elmer, has been employed by General Motors for 23 years.

1939

To quote Margarete Seilaz Peterson, "After leaving SMC with many cherished memories and friendships years ago, I finished at Andrews University and then taught at Battle Creek Academy, later doing literary work at PUC. I now live near Corvallis, Ore., where my husband, also an Andrews graduate owns a printing business. We have two daughters, Bev, a sophomore religion major at WWC, and Glenda, a junior at Laurelwood Academy. Tell friends to look us up when in the beautiful state of Oregon."

1949

Jimmie Lou Brackett writes that she started back to college this past summer working on a major in elementary education. She is teaching 6th grade and enjoys it more than high school teaching. She, T. L., '51, and daughter, Stephanie, live in Pascagoula, Miss.

Earl M. Clough, principal of the Ardmore, Okla., Junior Academy, took his students 185 miles to Broken Bow, Okla., to pass out gift Bible cards and although they were too far to follow up with the guide sheets they were able to place 50 Bibles.

Don B. Martin who has served in the Alabama-Mississippi Conference for the past six and one half years and before that in the Florida Conference for nine and one half years is now pastor of the Lubbock, Tex., church. Don and his wife, Geraldine, have four children.

The following are excerpts from a letter from Charles Harris: "We have been here in Southeast Asia for five years and have enjoyed our work very much. The year 1968 was quite a year and we are not sure what 1969 will bring.

"I am business manager of the Mission Hospital and also treasurer of the Vietnam Mission, and just recently was about to be temporary pastor of the Chinese church. I have just returned from visiting the Chinese elder, and he says one of the members is near death and that I should prepare a funeral sermon. I did not study for the ministry but will have to officiate anyway.

"The Chinese church is in the Cholon area of Saigon, which was hardest hit during the 1968 offensives. Many city blocks were destroyed not far from our church but no church member lost his life or home. We cannot say the same for the Vietnamese.

"We live about 5 miles from this area, but we were not hit that hard. However, heavy fighting took place just one block from our house."

The Harris' oldest child, Charles, is in the 8th grade so will have to go to Singapore to school next year. Carolyn is in the 5th grade.

1953

Harold, '58 and Marjorie Connell Johnson, '53, of Tajrish, Iran, visited several places of Biblical interest during their vacation. Among the places were the tombs of Queen Esther and Mordecai at Hamadan and the traditional site of Daniel's tomb at Shoosh. The latter tomb is covered by a small mosque with a court and garden around it.

1957

Paul Kilgore was a recent visitor on campus. Paul and Joan are the parents of Dixie, 11, Reggie, 5, and Penny, 3 years old. They live in Keene, Texas, as Paul is the Educational Superintendent of the Texas Conference.

1958

The Vinson Bushnells, '58, and Don Halls, '61, drove to Seattle, Wash., to spend New Years with the Paul Allens, '58. Vinson and Don teach at WWC and Paul is a physician in Seattle.

1959

Fernando Cardona since leaving SMC has spent four years as principal of the academy in Puerto Rico, another four years as head of the Chemistry Department and also teaching physics and math at Instituto Colombo Venezolano. He is now departmental secretary of the West Venezuela Mission, which means he is a secretary of the following departments: Education, M.V., Sabbath School, Lay Activities, etc.

Norman Peek, Ph.D., has been nominated as president elect of the Chattanooga Section of the American Chemical Society for 1969. Norman has been the secretary-treasurer during 1968.

Kenneth and Ann Cunningham Burke, '60, are in Tallahassee, Fla., while Kenny studies at Florida State University. During his first lab period, a lab rat grabbed his right forefinger and refused to let go until one of Kenny's classmates choked it and pried its mouth open. It meant weeks of working and studying with a mutilated finger.

1960

Charles Myers, who has taught in the public school system of Georgia for several years, is now teaching in Jefferson Academy in Texas. The Myers have two children, Chucky and Denise.

1961

Julius M. Garner, M.D., has joined the Florida Sanitarium and Hospital Medical Staff in the emergency department. Julius completed two years of service with the U.S. Navy, stationed in Mayport, Fla.

Donald E. Hall, Ph.D., assistant professor of physics at WWC has received a $2000 National Science Foundation grant for academic year extension of research in Plasma Astrophysics done at the University of Maryland last summer.

Carol Ann Meyer Marlow, husband, Paul, and two children, Susie and Dougie, live in Salmon, Idaho where Paul is pastor of the church. Carol Ann writes, "We came here in the cab of the conference van: the truck driver, the four of us, and Gigi, our thoroughbred German Shepherd. Since then we've added nine pups, eight cats, and five strays that wandered in. One gorgeous tom cat that adopted us brought $1 at the Harvest Ingathering auction, and we hope nine bright-eyed children find a furry G.S. pup in their Christmas stockings."

David W. and Marilyn Garrison Parker, both of '62, reside in Keene, Texas. David is teaching chemistry at Southwestern Union College. They have two children, Kenneth, 4, and Dawn, 2.

Jean Schmidt Kingry is working for the Ford Motor Co., in the Dearborn Iron Foundry. Her specific duties involve paper work for workmen's compensation, insurance and retirement.

Sue Ann Boynton Servoss, M.D., is doing residency in public health at the San Bernadino County Public Health Department and LLU.

Suzanne Boyer and husband, Don, have recently moved to Plains, Ga. They hope to be of help to the Americus church, one of our new dark county churches.

Larry L. Leas, who has been with the White Coats at Walter Reed Hospital, working in the office of the comptroller, has just finished his stint with the army and plans to attend LLU to work on an M.A. in anthropology with community development and planning as the center of interest.

D. Wayne McNutt is Bible teacher at Mt. Pisgah Academy. He and his wife, Debbie, have two children.

Since receiving her M.S. in physics in December, Marilyn Crooker is now doing computer programming in the field of physics at the Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala. She writes, "The research here is involved with the flights to the moon, which I find very fascinating."

Kenneth Alan Kirkham is stationed in Vietnam with an army evacuation hospital.

LuWana Lyle Kumualai and her husband, Jonah, live in Takoma Park. They recently made a trip to Hawaii to visit his people.

Richard L. and Linda Stefanson McKee, '65 received a gift of silverware for Richard's having the highest district sales in the Southern Union. He is one of the associate publishing secretaries of the Carolina Conference. His district had sales of over $125,000 for the year.

Betty Jeanne Walker is in Bangkok, Thailand, teaching the children of missionaries. She will be home in 1970.

1967

Tom McFarland is still with the White Coats working in social service, and Ina teaches church school in the Washington, D.C. area. During their spare time they work with the civilian chaplain in the servicemen's center.

1968

Jacinto Cobos is teaching Spanish and history at Valley Grande Academy in Texas.

Lynda Maxey Trawick has joined her husband, Specialist Fourth Class Donald Trawick, in Panama City. Lynda has pediatrics duty at the U.S. Air Force Service Hospital there, and Donald is with the U.S. Army Dispensary in Balboa, Panama.

Walls Rise for Broom Shop

The walls are up, and soon the roof will go on the new College Broom Shop, sponsored by SMC's Committee of 100.

SMC ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Treasurer's Report

The alumni officers and the administration of the College wish to thank the alumni for their wonderful support of the building program, especially the new Library Fund project at Southern Missionary College.

Total alumni giving for various projects on the campus reached $13,238.12 during the calendar year 1968. This does not include pledges. This figure represents 6% of the total alumni and a per capita giving of $96.62 for the members who have donated. The average gift for all the alumni now stands at $6.16.

It was voted at the regular annual meeting that each member do his best to give a minimum of $5 a year. If you have not availed yourself of this opportunity, your Alumni Association requests that you be active in this particular campaign to build the new $625,000 library on the SMC campus.

The alumni members of the Ambassador Club, the Honor Club and the Committee of 100 are listed below. Others than those listed in these three categories are listed as donors to the Library Fund project.

College Builds New Structures

President W. M. Schneider and College Manager Charles Fleming look over library plans and site.

Two main buildings are now under construction on the SMC campus. As the alumni know, the new library structure is under way, and Mr. Francis Costerisan, plant engineer, reports some progress in spite of the bad weather over the last few weeks.

The foundation walls are done, and it is hoped that construction on the upper walls will be started shortly. The library, which will cost $625,000, will be two stories above the basement with the necessary reference rooms, reading rooms and offices for a library for more than 1500 college students.

Of the total cost of $625,000, approximately $175,000 has been received in cash to date with the alumni, faculty, constituents, students, businessmen in the area, and foundations supporting the drive.

President W. M. Schneider presents diploma to Steven Wayne Thompson and congratulates him at commencement ceremonies.

133 Four-Year and 30 Two-Year Grads

The senior class this year was the largest on record with 133 four-year graduates and 30 two-year graduates.

Since SMC was raised from junior college to senior college level, 1621 four-year seniors have completed their work. The first four-year class was in 1946, with 6 graduates.

The first junior college graduates were in 1920 with 2 graduating. This year there were 30, which was the next to largest number of junior college graduates, being surpassed only by the class of 1938 when there were 32 junior college graduates. The total number of two-year graduates is 690.

Speakers for commencement weekend, May 30-June 1, were Dr. J. W. Cassell, Jr., academic dean at PUC and former SMC academic dean, who spoke at the Friday night consecration service; Elder Robert Pierson, general conference president, and whose alma mater is SMC, delivered the baccalaureate sermon, titled, "Greater Horizons"; Elder Kenneth H. Wood, editor of the Review and Herald, gave the commencement address Sunday morning; Carl Miller, associate professor of nursing at SMC, now on leave at Boston University obtaining his doctorate, was speaker at the senior nurses pinning service on Sabbath afternoon.

The following is a list of the 1969 graduates and their placements for next fall. We are most happy to welcome these new graduates into membership in the SMC Alumni Association:

FOUR-YEAR GRADUATES

Virginia Holmes Anderson—
Connie Rhea Arnold—
Jan Karl Artress—summer school at Middle Tennessee State University
Carolyn Martin Barringham—
Genevieve Brannan Bata—
Rudolph Andrew Bata, Jr.—Emory University, law school
David Bruce Beardsley—asst. business manager, San Pasqual Academy
Joyanne Berkey—nurse, Florida Sanitarium
